RUSSIAN RETREAT BLOCKED!

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—A telegram from the front states that the Russians are gradually giving way before Field Marshal Oyama's assault. General Kuroki has succeeded, after desperate fighting, in capturing an eminence overlooking the railway.

ARMENIANS AND TURKS IN FIGHT

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3.—A hot fight between Armenian insurgents and Turkish troops continued at Van, August 31, in which more than a score were killed. Armenians in the neighborhood of 150 raided the town, burned houses and killed several Armenians. Turkish troops followed the raiders and killed several persons. The two sides were again in battle, and the Armenians took refuge in the churches and convents.

KAISER DRILLS
BALLET GIRLS

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—Emperor William supervised the rehearsal of the ballet "Coppelia," which was given at the opera house. The emperor watched the rehearsal and the ballet girls performed the steps. He was very much interested in the performance and the girls were very much pleased to be in the emperor's presence.

"PA" CORBIN
RESCUES FOUR

By Boston American Licensed Wire.
HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 3.—A rescue from drowning of Senator Charles G. Cook, Fred R. Jones, of Chicago; Miss Mary, of Cleveland; and Edward P. Haggan, an architect, of this city, at Westport, R. I., has just been made known here by the return to this city of William Corbin, better known as "Pa," a great football player and seaman, of twenty years ago, who was one of the rescuers.

HELD IN $2,000
ON CHARGE OF
SHOOTING GIRL

Bullet Alleged to Have Been Fired by Duffy Imbedded in Victim's Flesh.

Arthur Duffy, of No. 14 Webster street, East Boston, was held today for the grand jury in charge of assault with intent to kill Miss Edith L. Turkey, of No. 18 Webster street.

The police say that Duffy is very lucky that he did not kill the girl. One bullet fired at her grazed her cheek. The other hit her in the back of the waist. It managed to penetrate her dress, breast and undergarment, but the force was nearly spent then, and it was merely half imbedded in the girl's back. Patrolmen Fitzgerald of East Boston police, to whom the girl ran screaming, picked the bullet out with his fingers.

Duffy is forty-three years old, and Miss Turkey is seventeen.

Duffy pleaded not guilty, and refused to make any statement.

Miss Turkey says Duffy fired at her because she passed through an alley near his house. The police think that Duffy had been drinking, and, hearing someone pass through the alley, aimed his rifle and fired.

Miss Turkey said that early in the evening she had called on a friend. The police made an arrest last night. To-day the police found Duffy in his room the police found they saw, every two calibers of bullet rifle, showing signs of recent use, together with a bag of ball cartridge.

Miss Turkey was more the worse to-day for being shot at, but Judge Barnes decided that the charge against Duffy was not proved, and he was released, being held at $2,000.

JAPS NOW COMMAND
RAILWAY TOMUKDEN

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Japanese this afternoon captured an eminence, north of the Taitse River, giving them command of the Mukden railroad. Russian retreat is now impossible.

General Kuroki has administered a crushing defeat to the great Russian army which succeeded in crossing the river. South of the Taitse the Russians have been hurled back on burning Liao-Yang by Generals Oku and Nodzu with the centre and left armies of Japan.

Kuropatkin is now actually "bottled up" in Liao-Yang. His retreat is cut off, and he must either surrender or submit his army to annihilation. He is hopelessly beaten.

Thousands of his soldiers who escaped the terrible rifle fire and bayonet charges of Kuroki and Oku's men, while crossing the swollen Taitse River, were hurled back into the flood and drowned. General Kuropatkin's offensive operations, begun yesterday, according to his own dispatch, ended even more disastrously than his passive resistance.

A telegram from Tokio, received at Rome to-day, states that the casualties at Liao-Yang have amounted to 50,000 killed and wounded.

The Japanese have captured the majority of the Russian positions in the direction of the railway to Mukden. When the battle was resumed this morning at dawn General Kuroki attacked the Russian left across the Russian left across the river with terrible ferocity.

The Russians fought with desperation during the early part of the day. They were pressed back, however, until their resistance was of little effect. Military experts here declare to-day that Kuropatkin must either surrender or submit to the annihilation of his army.

It is believed that to-day—the fifth day of the greatest battle in the world's history—will be decided.

ensive. Of the outcome there seems to be little doubt. Kuroki, with a victorious army trampling on his heels and a fresh and powerful enemy in the full tide of attack on his front, flank and line of communications, must inevitably surrender.

RUSSIAN FORCES DIVIDED.

The Russian force is divided, a large portion of it being still south of the Taitsze River. These were cut off in their retreat by Oka and Nodzu and compelled to turn and fight. On this isolated front and in the face of a fresh and powerful enemy, they were today, with terrible results.

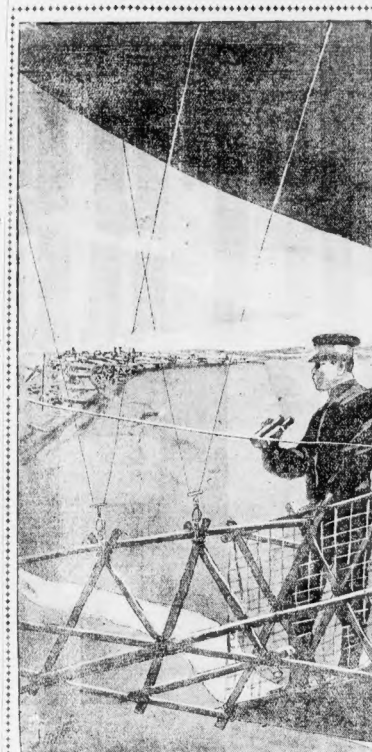

Dispatches yesterday from official sources placed the number of killed and wounded at 25,000 Japanese and 30,000 Russians. It is believed that up to date more than 75,000 men have fallen in the two armies.

UNITED STATES MAKES PROTEST

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3.—The United States has protested against the seizure of the cargo of the British steamer Arcturion, which was captured while bound from Peking to Japan by the United States Navy.

KAISER SOUNDS CZAR ON PEACE

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The St. Petersburg wire received at the Royal Telegraph office today is that Kaiser Wilhelm has written to the Czar in regard to the necessity of concluding peace in the Far East. The Kaiser's letter is believed to have been received by the Czar on the morning of September 2 at 1 o'clock in the morning. On September 3 the remainder were routed.

RUSSIAN LINES CUT BY THE JAPS

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3.—The War Department announces that communication with Liao-Yang has been cut, and that nothing has been received regarding the operations around that place since Thursday. The officials also state that the railroad station, which the Japanese report had been set on fire before it was captured by them, is outside the Liao-Yang fortifications.

Special Cable to Boston American. LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Russian line of communication from the Russian front for nearly twenty-four hours last night, gave rise to the impression that General Kuroki had succeeded in piercing the left flank of the Russian forces on the right bank of the Taitsze River, giving an opportunity to

JAPS SEARCHING RUSSIAN POSITIONS.

In the night battle at Liao-Yang the Japanese have been searching for the Russian positions. The result of the Japanese observations are that the Russian positions are in the vicinity of the Taitsze River, and that the Russian forces are in the vicinity of the Taitsze River. The Japanese have been searching for the Russian positions, and have been successful in finding them.

SECOND SKULL FOUND IN BARN; MYSTERY DEEP

Gruesome Discovery Under Roxbury Barn Puzzles Boston Police.

The gruesome mystery of the skull and bones found in the old barn at No. 22 Cozart street, Roxbury, which was found by another skull, with a few bones, was deepened today. The police have two supposed murder cases now to solve. The bones were found in the barn. The police are trying to locate people who were familiar with the neighborhood twenty years ago.

Two Skulls; Twenty Bones.
The first skull and bones were found by Charlie Bedlam, a thirteen-year-old boy living at No. 18 Cozart street. He was hunting for a baseball under the barn floor. The second skull and bones were found by a boy named Charlie, thirteen years old, of No. 64 Parier street. With this second skull and bones, the police are trying to locate people who were familiar with the neighborhood twenty years ago.

Young and Old Man.
The first skull found was that of a young man, for the teeth are well preserved and the skull was very thin. The back of the skull is entirely crushed, and it should be said that the dead had been done about twenty years ago.

Many Brawls in Barn.
The barn is a very old one. It is owned by Mrs. John Hanson, of No. 36 Cozart street. It was built by her over thirty years ago, when Roxbury was mainly a farming land. It is now a place where many brawls took place there among its occupants. At one time it was a place where many brawls took place there among its occupants.

BOY BOOMING AS ACCUSED BY THE COURT

New Bedford Girl, Charged With Shooting Father, Goes Forth Free. SOON TO BE MARRIED.

Special to the Boston American.

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 3.—Mary Alice Boham was discharged in court today on the accusation of manslaughter in killing her father, Joseph Boham, by shooting the shotgun at him. The girl, who is the daughter of Joseph Boham's body, Justice Milken said.

To Be Married Soon.
We shall be married, said her next step to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter immediately after the hearing. Miss Boham arrived in court at 9:15 o'clock. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Catherine Boham, her brother, Joseph Boham, and Arthur Boham, her brother-in-law. Inspector Hathaway was called to the stand and stated that there was no evidence against Miss Boham.

Affecting Scene Followed.
Boham almost collapsed and was with difficulty revived sufficiently to leave the court room. An affecting scene occurred in the court clerk's office, where Mrs. Boham embraced her daughter. She was weeping with joy and relief from the trials under which she had been laboring. Mary Boham preserved the same quiet demeanor which she had shown all her life, and when she passed into the open air, she was followed by a large crowd of people.

Case Probably Ended.
While the Boham case was being retried before the Grand Jury, the police and her attorneys are convinced that the case will never be heard again. "I am so happy that my name is cleared of the taint of my father's crime," said the girl, who is now in the custody of her mother. "I shall be able to live my life as I wish, and I shall be able to live my life as I wish."

AS SUSPECT IN MURDER CASE

Police Connect Biggie With Mysterious Death of Unknown. TOGETHER ON FATAL NIGHT.

Frank Biggie, arrested at the docks of the White Star Line in connection with the mysterious murder of an unidentified man in Norman street on Tuesday morning, was subjected today to a "third degree" examination by Captain Prager, of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, without result.

Biggie was at station 3 in 2nd street, and was seen by a man who was working every day as a housekeeper, and who could have sworn that he saw Biggie at the scene of the crime. Biggie was seen by a man who was working every day as a housekeeper, and who could have sworn that he saw Biggie at the scene of the crime.

The body of the murdered man lies at Hedges' undertaker's room on Howard street, and although the police have been unable to identify the man, they are confident that Biggie is the man who killed him.

The body of the murdered man lies at Hedges' undertaker's room on Howard street, and although the police have been unable to identify the man, they are confident that Biggie is the man who killed him.

Happy Hooligan and Brother Montmorency, those funny Opp people, are going to start for Europe again. You'll have to see it in the BOSTON AMERICAN.

What he ate, what he wore, how he adorned his wife, results of far-reaching search amid rocks and caves, covering three thousand centuries, is told in a feature of two full illustrated pages in the magazine edition of next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

will probably stick to the fussy, elaborate style, but if you dress to please men you will keep to the simple, more quiet styles.

Above all things men admire neatness. No matter how handsome a shirt waist may be, if it is miled it has no beauty in a man's eyes. He would far rather see you in a 38-cent muslin waist that was fresh and clean.

Don't forget, dear girls, that if you are proud it is a shame to mar your beauty by untidiness, and if you are plain you absolutely dare not be untidy.

So you see there is no escape. You just must be neat.

Editor Woman's Page:
I think you are perfectly right in what you say about people making the most of their married life together, and exacting no promises for the future when either one of them has departed this life. One cannot foresee the circumstances that they are to be placed in, and perhaps if the person that exacts such a promise knew how they were blinding the one they loved on earth they would regret nothing more than they were now. Sincerely,
Mrs. J. M. Smith
